

Executive Updates from the Office of the VP Administration (August 26th)

☐ Clubs

- Results from the Fall Engagement Survey along with the various actions being taken by the VP Administration Office in tandem with the Operations Committee have been submitted as part of the agenda for today's meeting. Kindly take a look at that to see how our office is aiding our subsidiaries in adapting to the upcoming semester.
- AMS CampusBase is launching on August 24th, giving students the ability to browse through the platform in exploring the many options available to them in finding a community here at UBC. It is our hope that this platform becomes an integral part of the UBC experience for years to come.
- The said privacy scare hinted at by the Ubysey has been resolved as we were in the latter end of our testing period while uploading AMS Members onto the system. By default, no user will be visible on the general directory leaving that option open to each individual's discretion. Additionally, group officers can no longer search for non-group members, leaving the ultimate decision of information consent to each individual user of the platform.

☐ Hatch

- Our new Hatch website is in the process of development and will be ready for use starting in September, to facilitate online exhibitions in lue of the capacity restrictions being adopted in the gallery space.
- Our exhibition schedule is almost complete and our team is excited to begin operating in the new year

☐ Sustainability

- The Runoff Garden across PiR is in its final stages of repair, bringing new life to the Nest in the form of an animated garden structure with new plants. Hopefully, this greets new and returning students with surprise and excitement as our building will most likely be heavily utilized by all, due to the limited spaces re-opening around campus.
- Focus groups are being led by AMS Sustainability in developing a programming agenda for the Interactive Sustainability Centre, in preparation for a project submission to council in the new semester.